INSTA-WORTHY DRIVES

Get in the car, take some pics, and reignite your soul. Whatever you seek, Oregon has 29 designated Scenic Byways and one of them has your name on it.

WANT TO:

Train for a space mission? Tread the Volcanic Legacy Scenic Byway, where astronauts have trained to walk on the moon!

Channel your inner explorer? Trace the steps of Lewis and Clark along the Historic Columbia River Highway Scenic Byway.

Retrace the route of a pioneer? Hit the Mt Hood Scenic Byway and stay wide-eyed on Barlow Road, a segment of the Oregon Trail.

Boost your immune system? Drive the Rogue-Umpqua Scenic Byway and pull over to do a little fishing!

Gaze at the clear blue sky? Drive the Hells Canyon Scenic Byway where the lofty Wallowa Mountains dominate the view along the ancestral homeland of the Nez Perce tribe.

Feel as if you're on an expedition? Just beyond the Portland metro area begins the West Cascades Scenic Byway. This curvy route winds along rivers and old growth forests.

Rewind your mistakes? Drive the Journey Through Time Scenic Byway. You'll see fossil beds, mining towns, and awe-inspiring Painted Hills.

Take the road less traveled? Trees to Seas Byway is the newest. The drive takes you through forests to a rugged headland and ocean-side cliffs.

Surround yourself with cranberries? For a spectacular view of the cranberry bogs that mark this region and ocean bluffs travel the Charleston to Bandon Tour Route.

Breathe in the salty ocean air? Roll down the windows and cruise the Pacific Coast Scenic Byway.

Feel as smart as Albert Einstein? Soak in the stunning scenery along one of the many Willamette Valley Scenic Byways. After, take part in a wine tasting because studies show that wine tasting engages your brain more than complicated math.

SO MANY CHOICES. NOT SURE WHICH ROAD TO CHOOSE?

BIKE-FRIENDLY LODGING

Oregon has the ONLY Scenic Bikeway program in the United States; it includes 17 scenic bikeways. Get ready to cycle across desert highways, pedal past geological wonders, and marvel at the sea.

Listed below are the bikeways closest to our B&Bs. Ask your innkeeper for insider details. And see all the trails at: www.oregontrailofwaterfalls.com

BIKEWAYS:

Covered Bridges: This family-friendly 36-mile loop leads to several covered bridges, including Chambers Bridge, a historic railroad bridge; Cottage Grove, a historic downtown district; and a bike/walk-only path along the north side of Dorena Lake.

Painted Hills: For days of jaw-dropping landscape and jam-packed adventure, nothing beats the geologic splendor, fossil beds, and many varied routes on this 161-mile loop (loop and out and back options).

Tualatin Valley: Bike past vineyards, dairy farms, and more as you take in the views of the Tualatin River on this moderate 51-mile course that's very popular with foodies.

Wild Rivers Coast: Nestled in the fishing hamlet of Port Orford, the oldest town on the Oregon Coast, this moderate, 61-mile, route lets you finish your trek in a day or break it up into several out-and-back rides.

Willamette Valley: Make your own history by cycling the first official Scenic Bikeway in the United States! This 134-mile, one-way, course takes you past vineyards and through quaint towns as you trace the Willamette River.

PSST... WANT TO SEE OREGON BY BIKE FROM TOP TO BOTTOM?

Take the 669-mile Oregon Timber Trail through the Cascade mountain range!

If you'd rather bike along the coast, pedal 370-miles along sweeping vistas on the Oregon Coast Bike Route.

MUST-SEE MOVIE SPOTS

Move over Hollywood, movie buffs will find plenty of spots to real-life movie locations to scout around here.

MOVIE SPOTS:

While Wild has story lines in California, Minnesota, and Oregon, all but seven of the movie's scenes were filmed in Oregon. Wander Mount Hood and you might just spot the location from the film's famous boot drop.

The Goonies was largely filmed in Astoria, with scenic shots from other coastal towns, like Cannon Beach. See Haystack Rock from the flick or climb your way to the cliff where the Goonies pull up on their bikes at Ecola State Park!

Parts of Stand By Me were filmed in Brownsville, which stood in for the fictional town of Castle Rock. The town has several plaques to mark movie locations and holds a yearly festival in the film's honor.

The Academy Award-winning One Flew Over the Cuckoo's Nest was filmed almost entirely at the Oregon State Hospital in Salem and included active participation of patients and staff. Now known as the Oregon State Hospital Museum of Mental Health, several old rooms have been preserved and turned into a museum.

National Lampoon's Animal House, one of the most successful comedies of all time, was filmed at the University of Oregon in Eugene in 1977. About 20-miles south, Cottage Grove, closed down Main Street for three days to film the homecoming parade scene. Today, the movie is part of the university's culture and film locations are highlighted on campus tours.

THE OREGON TRAIL AND NATIVE HERITAGE

The Oregon Trail was a 2,170-mile, large-wheeled wagon route, from Independence, Missouri, to Oregon City, Oregon, used by hundreds of thousands of American pioneers to emigrate west in the mid-1800s.

The trail was filled with peril – potential accidents, ailments, steep climbs, and crossings through Indian territories – but it paved the way for the United States to expand to the west.

Contrary to popular Hollywood depictions, most Indians were tolerant, helpful even, of the pioneer wagons that drove through their lands, at least initially. Over time, relationships between the Indians and pioneers deteriorated. The passing of the Oregon Donation Land Act encouraged settlement into the area in 1850. Slowly relations improved. Today Interstate 84 passes through towns originally established to serve those using the Oregon Trail. There are currently nine federally recognized tribes in the state: Burns Paiute of Harney County; Confederated Tribes of Coos, Lower Umpqua and Siuslaw Indians; Confederated Tribes of Grand Ronde; Confederated Tribes of Siletz; Confederated Tribes of Umatilla Reservation; Confederated Tribes of Warm Springs; Cow Creek Band of Umpqua Indians; Coquille Indian Tribe; and Klamath Tribes.

To learn more about the native heritage of the land, check out:
Tamástlikt Cultural Institute, on the Umatilla Reservation, about 15-minutes from Pendleton, is the only tribal-run museum that highlights the history and culture of Native Americans along the Oregon Trail. While there, visit the Crow's Shadow Institute of the Arts – the only fine-print studio on a reservation.

The National Historic Oregon Trail Interpretive Center where the outdoor wagon encampment, trails and access to the historic ruts are open daily. Located five miles east of Baker City, on Hwy 86, Exit 302 from I-84, 125 miles NW of Boise, 95 miles SE of Pendleton.

The Museum at Warm Springs houses a large collection of North American Indian artifacts. 2189 US-26 in Warm Springs.
Chachalu Museum and Cultural Center tells the story of the Confederated Tribes of Grand Ronde that persisted despite challenges. 9615 Grand Ronde Road in Grand Ronde.

The Confederated Tribes of Grand Ronde Center for Native American Art at the Portland Art Museum has a Native American art collection with 3,500 prehistoric and historic objects created by some 200 cultural groups from North America. 1219 SW Park Avenue in Portland.

THE OREGON TRAIL- THE GAME

This iconic computer game from the '70s taught kids about the life of a 19th century pioneer on the Oregon Trail. Do you remember playing the role of wagon leader?
